

AUDITION SCRIPT

Drama Scholar: Guess what? The school play this year is Beauty and the Beast!

Sugar Scholar: Awesome! I love that story.

Drama Scholar: It has everything. Far off places, daring sword fights. . .

Sugar Scholar: (interrupts) a prince in disguise!

Tough Scholar: Did someone say sword fights?

Drama Scholar: Yes, there's a big battle scene between the Beast and Gaston. The ending is so magical.

Grumpy Scholar: Why would anyone want to try out for the school play?

Tough Scholar: Didn't you hear about the fights and disguises?

Grumpy Scholar: I'm listening.

Drama Scholar: You get to make new friends, not to mention the stage, the lights, the costumes, the music!

Sugar Scholar: I can't wait to see the funny characters that live in the castle.

Grumpy Scholar: I suppose it would be fun to play a ferocious beast and scare the kids in the audience.

Tough Scholar: I've seen that Beast in the parade at Disneyland. He's not so scary. I could take him.

Drama Scholar: Okay, you big brute, then why don't you try out?

Tough Scholar: Just point the way to the audition.

Sugar Scholar: Umm . . . well . . . you're here!

Grumpy Scholar: Alright, let's get this over with!

---

OPTIONAL:

If you can speak with a British and/or French accent, practice these lines:

British: How would you like a nice spot of tea, sir? It will warm you up in no time.

French: Ma chere mademoiselle, it is with deepest pride and greatest pleasure that we welcome you tonight. And now we invite you to relax. Let us pull up a chair as the Dining Room proudly presents . . . your dinner!

